

Tampa Bay Dental Assistant School to Accommodate High Job Growth & Demand by Opening High-Tech Training Facility in 2018

Posted: Apr 25, 2017 9:57 AM

In today's economy, individuals looking for first time careers or retraining in a different field are finding one job in particular is bringing multiple well-paying offers. An Expanded Functions Dental Assistant might sound like you went to years of dental school. But those seeking a career in the healthcare profession and an enjoyable environment can be employed after 6 months of professional training in one of the fastest growing and highly compensated healthcare professions in the nation.

Become a Dental Assistant at Academy for Dental Assistants.

Tampa Bay's leading Dental Assistant Training School has broken ground on a new state-of-the-art facility in order to accommodate the growth of this often overlooked, but lucrative career choice. The new high-tech learning center will be opening in the same city in the first quarter of 2018. Academy for Dental Assistants continues to hold classes in their well-established Educational Institution at their existing facility in St. Petersburg during construction.

Students who want the very best education in dental assistant training and to receive their State Certifications are traveling from all over Florida to Academy for Dental Assistants. It's normal for a class to have participants from as far away as Pensacola, Miami, Orlando and Fort Myers due to the blended format of education in which they deliver their courses that places the didactic portion of the course online via their website. This is very convenient for the student as they only have to attend the class in person for the clinical hands-on portion of the course allowing for flexibility around the students schedule.

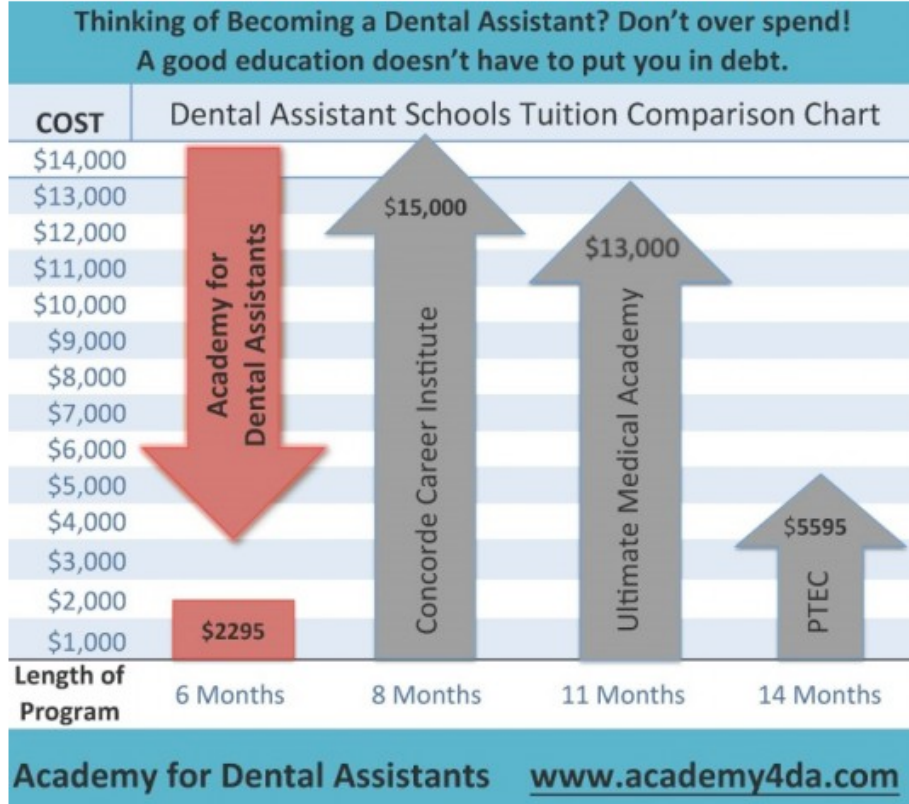

"I was a dental hygienist that worked at the same dental office for 23 years. In 2001, I decided I wanted to do more than dental hygiene but I loved the field of Dentistry and didn't want to leave the field so I decided to begin teaching dental assisting," recalls Ronda Miller, Director of the school. "I wrote the curriculum for the program, presented it to the Board of Dentistry for approval, and now, 16 years later have trained and certified over 2000 dental assistants in Florida."

Ms. Miller immediately observed that some people learned better from a hands-on training format rather than a lecture format. So you might say that the Academy for Dental Assistants has pioneered and developed a curriculum for dental assistant training for all types of learners.

Their courses are offered in a hybrid blended format, so that students can complete the lecture portion of the course material, textbook reading, homework, and tests all online via the Academy's website. This allows students to fit the coursework into their schedule when it's convenient for them and limit physically attending class at the facility to one day per week to complete the hands-on portion of the training.

The convenience factor is significant as it allows students to continue to work or be with their families while attending the program. Academy for Dental Assistants offers classes in the evenings, weekdays and Saturdays.

The courses are priced so that interested individuals can afford to get the very best education and state certifications in the healthcare field for about $2,295. That seems to be a very significant savings to the student as some of Academy for Dental Assistants competitors prices in the same city are priced from $5,595 and vary all the way up to $18,000 if completed in a larger for-profit secondary educational facility. The Academy for Dental Assistants offers a very convenient and affordable payment option for individuals that do not have the funds to pay for the course up front. It seems that they have thought of everything.

Academy for Dental Assistants training center has perfected a program for an individual to receive their Expanded Functions Dental Assistant and Dental Radiology Certifications and be working earning better than average compensation all within 6 months versus 8-14 months.

"Our philosophy on this is that we would rather have the students out in the field learning in a real world atmosphere rather than sitting in the classroom practicing on models and a manikin," explains the Director of the Program.

According to PayScale, Inc., the average compensation for an (EFDA) Expanded Functions Dental Assistant is $18.25 an hour plus bonuses, benefits and profit sharing. Annual compensation varies depending upon your city, experience and the dental practice. Research shows an EFDA with just 5 years of experience can earn from about the mid $40 thousand range to highs of about $55,000, and in some cities, much more. Alexandria Gonsman, a graduate and now a practicing Dental Assistant remembers, "I had such a great experience. The teachers were very sweet and helpful every single step of the way and didn't try to rush the class. They made sure that you understood what you were doing before the class moved on. It also has a lot of hands on activity so it's easier to learn. I would recommend this class to anyone because it was really great and I enjoyed it."

While Academy's students are busy learning at the existing facility, construction is underway at what will be a much larger and more modern facility just a few blocks away. The Academy for Dental Assistants is expanding to meet the higher demand to train more students and with the objective to get students out in the field working and earning a great income in the shortest time possible while still receiving a quality education.

In anticipation of the needs of the dental industry, the Academy is also offering other classes for the profession including Dental Radiology Certification as well as a training program for Orthodontic assisting and more. They offer Certification courses for previously trained Dental Assistants that move to Florida and are in need of their Florida Dental Assistant Certifications also offered in a hybrid blended format.

Regardless of the rest of the job market, Academy for Dental Assistants knows the demands of the dental industry and is clear that there will only be an increase in openings for those who want to be involved in this exciting Healthcare Career and Academy for Dental Assistants is rapidly preparing for it.
